MARKET & PUPUSERIA

Ken Katz, Owner/CFO, Jeannette Flores-Katz, Owner/CEO

Personal Story

Inspired by El Salvador's open street markets, Jeannette's hometown. Ken's hometown, New York City. And influenced by their travels and flavors from Guatemala, Mexico, San Francisco, Italy and Miami, Ken and Jeannette aspire to bring local fresh food to Atlanta with Latin flavors. With over 40 years of retail, fashion, dining and hospitality experience. In 2012, they opened Buenos Dias Cafe in downtown Atlanta, followed by La Bodega at The Met in 2019 a testament to their passion for fresh ingredients, food, family, culture, and traditions.

From Farm to Your Home

La Bodega, where we believe that fresh, locally sourced groceries and food should be accessible in every neighborhood. La Bodega is more than a restaurant; it's a community-supported farm-to-home ecosystem.

We partner with local sustainable farmers, up-and-coming chefs, and makers to provide a community-supported ecosystem, featuring fresh ingredients, with vegan, vegetarian and gluten-free options. From Pupusas and sandwiches to salads, and in house bake desserts, we've got your cravings covered.

Explore Our Menu

Our best-sellers include our traditional naturally gluten-free Pupusas with vegan, vegetarian, options and other dietary needs.

Indulge in our popular Cuban sandwich, made with local bread, or try the Quinoa Breakfast Bowl—a healthy option with sautéed veggies, Peruvian quinoa, house-made black beans, and sunny side up egg. And our catering Fajita and Taco Bar and a source of freshly baked desserts.

The Window

We understand the importance of the go-to window for serving customers efficiently, especially in today's fast paced environment. At La Bodega, the take-out window is a convenient solution for those in a hurry or looking to pick up orders from the website www.labodegaatl.com. Operating during breakfast and lunch on Wednesdays through Saturdays, with a diverse menu, an Espresso bar and refreshing seasonal fresh juices. It's a seamless way to enjoy our offerings.
