

Balram B. Bheodari
A.A.E, IAP, Aviation General Manager

Balram “B” Bheodari oversees all facets of Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International Airport governance, including operations and a multibillion-dollar capital improvement program designed to pave the way for Atlanta’s growth over the next 20 years.

His priorities are focused on three strategic pillars: People, Purpose and Performance. Those pillars encompass a comprehensive safety and security platform, a robust customer experience program, a sustainable enterprise, healthy financial performance, innovative technology framework, and completion of ATL’s critical capital program on schedule and within budget.

A retired Army aviator, Bheodari has an extensive career in aviation executive management and is leading ATL through a time of unprecedented growth and infrastructure improvements. Having successfully navigated the Airport through the most challenging period of the COVID-19 pandemic, he remains focused on the future as ATL welcomes almost 100 million customers annually.

A native of Guyana, among the credentials Bheodari holds is the American Association of Airport Executives Accredited Airport Executive (AAE) designation. He is a graduate of Troy University with a Bachelor of Science degree in aviation management and has completed the Emory University Executive Education Management Leadership and Development Programs.

Myrna M. White
Former First Assistant General Manager for Public and International Affairs

Myrna White is nationally-recognized for honing a remarkable career at the world’s busiest airport, trailblazing her way through the ranks to become the organization’s first Assistant General Manager for Public and International Affairs.

After 32 years of distinguished service, Ms. White retired from Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International Airport in 2023. Her many accolades include the Legacy Award for Excellence in Creativity from Airports Council International-North America, but she is most honored by the ATL Airport administration’s installation of a plaque bearing her name adjacent to the fifth runway – a runway in whose history she played a vital role.

Ms. White now leverages her expertise at Everest Global Engagement, her public affairs consultancy. Inspired by the earth’s highest peak, this brand reflects her commitment to the highest standards of excellence and her reputation for integrity.
